Oriental Rugs

—will be classed with the lost arts in a very short time, as most of the people in the rug-weaving districts of the Orient have perished by war and famine. Many have sought other means of livelihood, as it would be impossible to live the old way under modern conditions.

We have some three hundred pieces, ranging in size from 18x36 inches to 6x9 feet. The price they are marked to sell at is less than the real value of today.
